HAVE YOU CONSIDERED WHAT KIND OF FACE COVER YOU ARE WEARING?

Medical experts break down 3 types of face covers:

- Cloth masks are little more than facial decorations and should not be considered an acceptable form of face covering. They can be worn for minor peace of mind, but not when in close contact with others. Multilayer cloth masks and/or masks that can add a filtering layer can be acceptable.
- "Medical-type" surgical masks should be the mask of choice when in close contact to others.
- N95 or KN95 respirator should be worn in crowded indoor spaces, on trains and planes.

The first "P" in "PPE" stands for "Personal", and never before has safety been more personal than it is now as COVID infections reach unprecedented levels.

Hospitalizations have reached a record high in January 2022, according to a Reuters tally, as Omicron quickly overtook Delta as the dominant version of the virus in the United States.

Rest assured, Saf-T-Gard International, Inc. has the essential safety supplies on hand to help prevent the spread and support you and your employees during the Coronavirus outbreak.
